Department of History

Leh Campus, Taru Thang

REPORT

Today on 3rd August 2024, students and faculty members from the Department of History, University of Ladakh visited the Ladakh Arts and Media Organisation (LAMO) for an exhibition titled "Thread That Talks: Woven Narratives from Changthang." This exhibition showed the beautiful culture of Changthang region through textiles, highlighting its history, religion and cultural heritage.

After visiting LAMO, the group went to the Central Asian Museum in Leh. Here, students learned about the rich cultural heritage of Central Asia and Tibet, especially how trade routes connected these regions. This visit helped students understand the diverse cultural influences and historical connections through trade.

The students also visited the oldest mosque next to the Central Asian Museum. This visit gave them a deeper insight into the region's diverse religious and cultural history.

Overall, the trip was a valuable and enriching experience for the students, helping them learn more about the history and culture of Ladakh and its neighboring regions.
